

CASE STUDY

“Roof & Building Service could not have been more professional, or more thorough!”

says Westpoint Apartments Executive Committee Member, Ian Willington.

We ticked all the right boxes

Roof & Building Service has completed projects from Brisbane to Melbourne and everywhere in between... including this recent project at Nelson Bay, 60 kilometres north-east of Newcastle. According to Westpoint's Executive Committee Member, Ian Willington, we ticked all the right boxes.

In 2014, the body corporate at Westpoint Apartments in Nelson Bay realised that the waterproof membrane on the roofs of their two adjoining apartment buildings had seen better days; they were beginning to fail and needed to be replaced as soon as possible.

So Executive Committee Member, Ian Willington, called in the professionals at Roof & Building Service.

A complicated project

“I’m glad we decided on Roof & Building Service”, he said. “It was a fairly complicated project and I knew that they would be up to the task.”

The main complication Scott Jensen from R&BS discovered on his first inspection of Westpoint was the remains of a brick fence that had originally been built around the roof of this 3-storey, older style complex.

Although it had been previously removed, the footings of this fence were starting to decay dangerously, allowing water to ingress.

R&BS wasted no time in completely replacing the waterproof membrane, and treating and encapsulating this footing area.

No shortcuts

Ian takes up the story:

"Roof & Building Service couldn't have been more professional, or more thorough," he said.

"There were no shortcuts taken, nothing was just painted over. Rather than bang up some scaffolding, they used Elevated Work Platforms (EWPs) and did a fantastic job, with little to no disruption for the 16 unit owners/ holiday makers."

"The guys were extremely hard workers and Scott kept me right up to date at every stage."

"Even if their quote had been higher than their competitors – which I'm delighted to say it wasn't – I would still have gone with R&BS. There's nothing like the peace of mind you get when you know that a job is being handled by professionals and that it's being done right the first time."

If you require an experienced, reliable company to inspect and report on the waterproof membrane on your roof(s), take Ian Willington's advice and call Roof & Building Service on 1800 550 037.
